History: Since its inception in 2001, the Festival, sponsored by both Pohang City and Gyeongsangbuk-do province, has been held annually in Pohang, reflecting the cultural and historical characteristics of the coastal city. With the participation of distinctive Korean and international participants, the Festival has been successfully promoting cultural exchanges among nations, while cultivating and fostering diverse cultural resources as well.

About Pohang: The city is sitting on the east coast of South Korea, has two beaches close to downtown: Young Il Dae Beach, ten minute distance from the HwanHo Park; and Songdo Beach, with the Central Art Hall nearby. Pohang, once was a small fishing village, is now an industrial city of the population around 520,000. The city boasts of the prestigious university of POSTECH, Pohang University of Science and Technology, which has two full-scale particle accelerators, attracting scientists and engineers from all around the world. POSCO, one of the leading global steel manufacturers in the world also resides in Pohang.
